

ENORMOUS PROFITS OF CHINESE MERCHANTS

Commissioner King's Inquiry Reveals Astounding Profit of Chinese in Vancouver—Present Claim to Recover Fine For Carrying Firearms

Vancouver, B.C., May 28.—At the second day's session of Commissioner King's inquiry into the Chinese trade in opium, Pres. Shun Hing of the Chinese board of trade, valued the total profits of the 4,200 Chinese in the Chinese quarters at two millions and within the city at another million. He estimated that the Chinese in the province at large numbered 10,000, of whom fully 1,500 were in mills, and 500 as domestics. The larger proportion of the balance were merchants. Nearly all the Chinese in the colonial quarter own the places they occupy.

An interesting feature was the claim to recover the loss imposed for carrying firearms, and for obiding explanations requesting advice from Police.

In connection with the claim for $100 of Lee Yuen, the latter said he made a profit of twenty thousand dollars out of the manufacture of opium.

What, then, questioned the Commissioner.

"Yes, clear profit," was the reply in plain English. "Our group has more than one hundred and eighty thousand dollars' worth."

Mr. Ling from the London Chinese embassy, frowned on his countryman's revelations concerning the millions of the trade carried on under license, making 1,000 per cent.

Wong Lung claimed $130 for a year's clearing of his theatre, and $100 for the closing of an adjoining restaurant, where he served his countrymen. Lung claimed to have cleared $100 annually from the restaurant.

According to Tan Tong, establishing firms are made in the drug business. He claimed $200 for the loss of profits during the six days Chinatown was closed.

San Yen, who asked for $200 monthly estimated his annual profits at $10,000. He informed the Commissioner that during the last year he purchased six rifles and 300 rounds of ammunition, but was not seeking a refund of the cost of these.

NEW COLONIAL SETBACK.

No office in the British cabinet is fraught with greater responsibility than these present times than the Secretary of State for the Colonies.

Communistate fact, diplomacy of the highest order, freedom from prejudice, a keen sense of perspective, the experience of a travelled man of the world and statesmanship in the broadest sense of the word are the principal qualifications required of the chief of this department of the administration, writes Ex. Attache in the New York Tribune.

The nation looks to preserve unimpaired the bond that unite the Dominion of Canada and of New Zealand, the Commonwealth of Australia and the other dependencies of New Zealand, the Commonwealth of Australia and the other dependencies of New Zealand, the Commonwealth of Australia and the other dependencies of New Zealand.

beyond the sea—excepting India—remains the only one of the British Empire upon which the sun never sets, and which embraces a fifth of the human race.

In all of these transverse positions, even when matters of self-interest are involved, the tendency is in favor of increased autonomy.

Interference from Downing street is kindly resented, and the Secretary of State is known to employ the utmost delicacy and gentleness of touch in the exercise of the Imperial authority vested in his hands. He uses, as a rule, takes the form of suggestion, persuasion, and only in extreme cases resorts to a veto of colonial legislation, issued through the Governor, who is then representative of the Crown, but who takes his instructions from the Secretary of State.

Question of Colonial Policy.

That the exercise of this authority in the manner which I have just indicated is necessary is a fact, and the fact, that the policies of the various transposing dependencies frequently clash, not only with the interests of one another, but likewise with the policy of the home government, and with the obligations of the empire as an entity towards foreign powers.

The long pending controversy on the subject of Newfoundland furnished a rare point and another illustration thereof is to be found in the determination of the British Empire of the Dominion of Canada, and on the part of Australia, New Zealand and of South Africa, to exclude Australia, in spite of the fact that the people of India are for the most part full fledged subjects of the British Crown, and that the Indians are allies of England.

Then there is also the question of the tariff, which some colonies have set up, not only against foreign nations, but even against Great Britain.

There is also the problem of providing subsidies and grants, and the problem of the colonies and of persuading them to contribute to its cost, and, above all, there is the difficulty of explaining to the parliament at Westminster that conditions are so different that it is quite impossible to attempt to enforce unity, which, while a matter of popular sentiment and prejudice in the mother country, are altogether impracticable in distant dependencies.

People, far from their native country town or village in England, but who nevertheless exercise through their parliamentary representatives an influence in the Imperial legislature at Westminster, are fond of arguing that the dusky aboriginal natives of Australia, representing the lowest and most degraded type of humanity, and the various ignorant and more or less savage aboriginal races of Southern Africa have identically the same civil rights and can be ruled by the same methods as the whites.

They are only an untouchable proportion but one which constitutes the most weighty and convincing order compel the colonial governments to read.

Hans Critics A Threat.

To make matters worse, the Secretary of State for the Colonies is wholly responsible to parliament, and his colleagues at the house of the Department of Foreign Affairs is first and foremost accountable to the House of Commons.

MR. HAULTAIN THINKS CHINAMEN SHOULD VOTE

He Objects to Clause Disallowing them the Franchise—Re-establishes Bill in Committee—Government and Opposition Exchange Views.

Edmonton, May 27.—A somewhat heated discussion took place between the leader of the Opposition and the government in the Senate today as to whether certain clauses were or were not in the bill. The Premier stated the documents were handed over for examination by Mr. Haultain but were not left on the table. He offered to bring down the whole bill or any part of it if Mr. Haultain would make a request.

This Mr. Haultain refused to do, insisting that the documents had been left on the table and should be brought back without application. Mr. Haultain eventually withdrew his motion to adjourn the House and the discussion ended.

The Saskatchewan Election Bill was considered in committee of the whole. Mr. Haultain questioned the clause excluding Chinamen from voting. A member of the government said that the power to say who shall have the right to vote for members. Chinamen were disallowed not on the ground of race but on the ground of expediency. J. T. Brown said they were not in the same position as in British Columbia, where, owing to the labor agitation, and a clause was considered inadvisable. The Premier said that the clause with regard to Chinamen was one they would not vote on political issue. They either did not understand or were unable to express their opinions. Mr. Haultain said it was not lack of intelligence that suggested the clause, but because Chinamen were a most intelligent race. The Premier said if it was practicable, he would get for them and exclude all who did not take an intelligent interest in the issue. The clause was passed.

George E. Langley presented a petition from J. S. Hopkins and others for the incorporation of the Grain Growers' Association, Saskatoon.

The special redistribution committee met this evening. The Premier read the populations of the thirty-nine constituencies and the government proposed under a draft election to divide the province. The initiative map produced by the Opposition members shows forty constituencies. The government's map groups the constituencies as far as possible along the railway lines. The Government and Opposition members of the committee have exchanged maps and will consider the matter in variation.

RACIAL STRIFE IN GALICIA.

Discussions Between Poles and Ruthenians—Peasant Operations.

Vineta, May 27.—The brutal killing of six Ruthenian peasants and the wounding of a score more since the outbreak of hostilities between the Poles and Ruthenians, has created an excitement in parliament last evening. Only with great difficulties could the details of the two fatalities be prevented from coming to blows. It appears that the real origin of the trouble was not, as reported, the rights which are of little value, but the action of the authorities in forbidding the peasants to stop their tramp in the bread and points of the country.

The inevitable per cent amounts most of the year have no lucrative occupation, but to give tax of which they pay their own parents. Consequently the situation is extremely bad. It has caused the greatest indignation. It is feared that unless the government takes firm stand the conflict between Poles and Ruthenians will assume more serious dimensions. The situation in Galicia has been in a state of ferment since the assassination of Governor Potulski, on April 12.

AT THE RIFLE RANGE

A number of members of the Edmonton Rifle Association attended the match practice on the afternoon of Monday, May 24th, and took part in the shooting of the day. The day was a fairly steady one, with a number of the new all-day rights having been received during the previous week. Considerable experience was found necessary with these rifles, the "eye" could be found, causing some comparatively low scoring, even among those who regularly compete a good score, and we fear may be the means of a number of the "Over-Sea Daily Mail" match to be shot on the 26th, as sufficient practice cannot be had with them. They should attend the scoring in the Canadian Rifle Club, the first of which is to be held on the 26th of June, as experience will then be over, and a change of wind, or elevation can be made to the use of these sights with the rifle at the shoulder, the shooting of the season should average high. The following are the scores:

THE FRUIT STATIONS.

There is every indication that the grapes which the Department of Agriculture have placed in Alberta as a fruit station, will be successful. In the fall of 1933 experimental vineyards were planted in the fruit stations of the Province, viz. Medicine Hat, Marmora, Gramma, De Winton, and Calgary. The grapes are now being planted at the fruit stations, and it is expected that they will be successful.
